

where the wild things grow

A free seminar on improving the ecology of housing estates

26 February 2007
10am-2pm

Conference Centre
Royal Horticultural Halls
London SW1

where the wild things grow

biodiversity, groovy plants and veggies on housing estates

Many housing estate landscapes appear pretty lifeless, and yet with a little imagination, they can be transformed into places with benefits to residents and wildlife alike. This seminar will show the potential, and launch specific guidance - A Natural Estate - to assist social landlords and their residents in bringing some life to their local spaces.

Please join discussions with a panel of experts to talk about improving the ecology of housing estates.

Speakers include:

- Mathew Frith - Neighbourhoods Green
- Sarah Burton - Natural England
- John Newton - Ecology Consultancy Ltd
- Clare Joy - Women's Environmental Network

10am - 1pm Seminar and discussion
1pm - 2pm Lunch

Venue

Conference Centre, Royal Horticultural Halls
Greycoat Street, London SW1P 2PE

Nearest Underground

Victoria, Pimlico, St James's Park

To book your free place, contact us before 9 February

Email rsvp@nhhg.org.uk

Call Michelle Junaid on 020 8357 4460

Nottingham Housing

